

The Puerto Rico Department of Health, Office of Public Health Preparedness and Response
along with co-hosts
the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR)
and the Mount Sinai Pediatric Environmental Health Specialty Unit (PEHSU)

INVITE YOU TO:

The Puerto Rico Children's Environmental Health Conference

Date: Wednesday, June 24, 2009

Time: 8 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Place: San Juan Marriott Resort & Stellaris Casino

Address: 1309 Ashford Avenue
San Juan, PR 00907

Telephone number: 787-722-7000

To Register: <http://www.trainex.org/PRchild>

This one day, free-of-cost, conference will provide the participant with information on current issues in children's environmental health including asthma, industrial waste, lead poisoning, and mercury exposures.

Using case examples from Puerto Rico, the objective of the conference is to increase awareness of environmental health issues so that identification, prevention, and treatment of environmental exposures in childhood are more readily addressed.

The target audience for this conference includes physicians, other health care providers, and public health professionals.

There is no cost to participate in this conference.

Space is limited so participants are encouraged to register in advance.

Parking is available at the Marriott for a fee. Food establishments are within walking distance.